Ghass Rouzkhosh

Born in Iran in 1964, Ghass Rouzkhosh was conscripted to fight in the Iran-Iraq War at the age of 18 and served as a soldier for two years. Now at the age of 43, his paintings depict his personal experience as well as geo-political issues. Rouzkhosh, who is based in Paris, says he “doesn’t do nice paintings,” restricting himself to red, white and black to symbolise chaos and destruction. His work can be found in numerous private collections.
